

Using Google Group

Distance learning start early in many organizations and most of them search for a suitable tool to use it to communicate with learner.

Google group is an example of free tool which is perfect and can be used in distance learning. According to study students agree that using Google group make education easier and increase interactivity. Although students are 60 on class.

Dealing with Google group is easy and also creating an account on it. More over enable student's educations and post their contributions.

There is another advantage that course content and teacher are available. The way of learning used is the instructor show the subject and material in the group then students start to read and ask questions. If any student can answer the question of his colleague he can do with teacher monitoring and interfering in case of error to allow students to share their experiences. Extra marks are given to students to posts and answer questions but most students say they share to increase their understanding.

Lastly using free tool like Google group have multiple benefit promote learning and student contribution, encourage student self reading.
