Great and affordable choice for small RC chargi

If you are like me, you bought an Axial SCX24 only to find the L complete piece of trash. I didn't want to buy another charger b crawling.

This little charger is a great value and has done a great job of charging the crawler. It works very simply. You plug it into the wall, you plug in the LEDs will go red until it finishes, in which case they all turn green. For 3 cell lipo, you will find that 2 of the 3 will be red while charging, the 3rd will be green.

So far, over 20 charges through the unit and it hasn't given me any problems. I can't recommend this unit. Especially when you are using it for small micro crawlers or mini drones. 4.5/5 for me.

Simple, easy to use, inexpensive!

This HTRC B3 AC is a convenient great little charger. What I like most is the balance charge plug and you have one status light per cell. Red means not charged and green when each cell is charged. You don't need to match cell colors to the plug type you are using with your RC or device, just use the balance charge plug. It's an inexpensive option for 2 or 3 cell lipo battery.

Balance charges completely independent, unlike other chargers that takes awhile.

Reviewed in the United States on August 5, 2020

It charges 100% through the balance port, it doesn't use the high current like some other chargers use, like the HTRC T150. So this is purely a good thing because the other charger (HTRC T150) has a hard time charging one cell comes up real low, it will just error and stop. This charger regardless, and that low cell will come up and be ok in the end.

It just charges slow, which is fine for overnight charging, etc. Pe and be done, no settings to mess with.

Works, just very slowly.

This charger works, but you need to understand how slowly it c you're looking at 6 hours to charge it.

If you need a cheap option, and you're ok with a very slow char deal.

I use this for my second battery on my element enduro crawler, money you can get a way better charger that will charge a batt which means you don't have much better flexibility to go crawl how I like to drive my RC trucks.

Returned - no problem getting a replacement. 2ND charger - first one it out, same problem, not charging 2ND cell. Not worth returning 5 batteries. I'll stick with the. chargers that come with the RCs u
